Thaw in Prices To Offset Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) - The President's Price Commission says frozen prices will be thawed just enough after Saturday to make up for new increases in business

That is the core of a complex cluster of price guidelines announced Thursday and aimed at keeping the average of all postfreeze price increases down to 2.5 per cent or less.

Meanwhile, the Pay Board completed work Thursday night on regulations to implement pay policies after the freeze ends at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. The regulations. built around a general 5.5-per-cent ceiling on pay increases, will be published in the Federal Register Saturday

"The people deserve an honest day's work for a day's pay," he continued. "The machine must be dismantled and junked."

Danforth concluded that through trying to make the attorney general's office a model of what good government should be. he felt the Republican party could achieve its goal of electing a majority to the state Legislature in 1972.

Also attending Thursday's $10-a-plate dinner were Dr. Guss Salley, Warsaw, representative of the 116th District; John Ryan, announced candidate for the 21st Senatorial District; Mayor Jerry Jones; Leroy Iuchs, Pettis County Republican chairman; Rep. John Russell, Lebanon, Republican House floor leader; Les Langford, chairman of the Republican Legislative Campaign Committee; and officers and directors of the Pettis County Republican Club.

the commission. Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II said Thursday he will seek permission for appropriate price increases after studying the new guides.

The commission's policy statement does not mean that all prices will increase by 2.5 per cent. "This means that some prices will go down. Some will not increase at all. Some will go up more than 2.5 per cent," said Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson.

The aim is to get the average of all price increases to that level, he said. If that doesn't happen, some changes will be made

The same basic rule was laid down for manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, service industries and professionals: The only price increases to be allowed are those that can be justified by cost increases or decreases in productivity, and which do not increase the profit portion of the pre-tax sales dollar.

For the 10 million smallest firms that account for half America's sales this rule will be enforced only by Internal Revenue Service spot checks and watchful customers. Bigger firms will be monitored by the government, with the 1,300 largest corporations required to get advance approval of any price increases.

Meanwhile, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said he expects the Pay Board's 5.5-per-cent guideline to be reduced as price increases level off next

"I do not think we can stand an increase in wages of 5.5 per cent indefinitely," Burns told Wall Street leaders in New York Thursday night.

And White House economist Herbert Stein told the National Association of Manufacturers the Phase 2 program will have "rough edges for many," but is one in which "you can live, operate and prosper.'

Grayson appealed for voluntary, publicspirited cooperation by the nation's businessmen. Without it, he said, the entire system of price controls will surely collapse into an inflationary shambles.

However, the commission decided not to equip consumers with the legal power to demand that a small businessman ope books to justify price hikes based on increased costs. Instead, it urged firms to provide such cost information voluntarily.

A Price Commission spokesman said a customer who is suspicious of a price increase by a firm that refuses to provide information to justify it may complain to the Internal Revenue Service.

On the other hand, Grayson said, businessmen entitled to legitimate price increases should not hesitate to put them into effect Sunday.

Before retail merchants may increase prices, however, they must post lists of price ceilings that prevailed during the freeze period on food and on other yet-tobe-specified items. In any case, such lists must be up by next Jan. 1.

Turnpike Bond Plan Sold to Syndicate

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The Oklahoma Turnpike Authority sold the $74 million Cimarron Turnpike bond issue to a 175-member Eastern Underwriting syndicate today at interest rates well below the legal maximum.

The underwriters purchased the bonds in two issues, with one $24 million issue bringing 6 per cent interest and maturing in 20 years, and the $50 million issue bringing 61/2 per cent and maturing in 33 years.

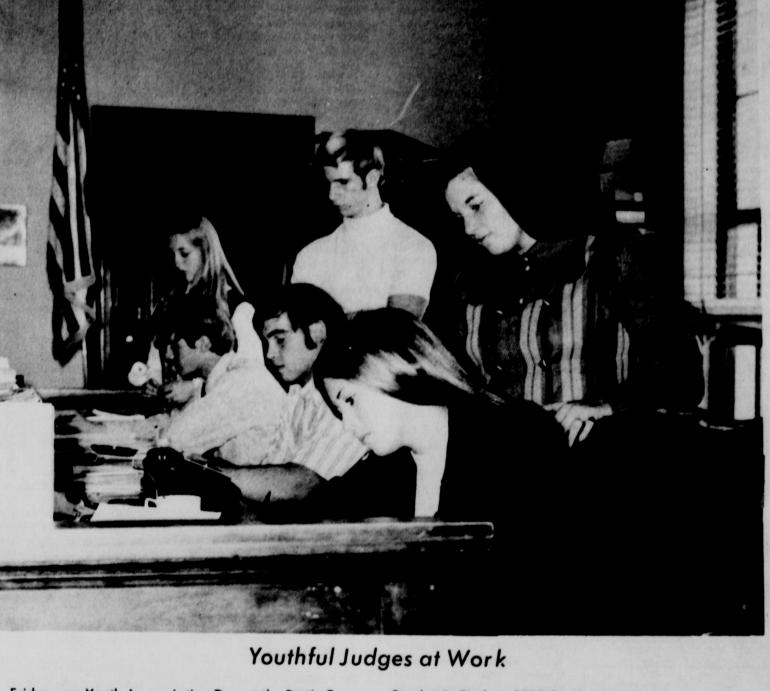

The underwriters charged a 2.65 per cent discount rate, the lowest since Oklahoma began selling turnpike bonds.

Gov. David Hall, noting that the interest rate is well below the 7.5 per cent legal maximum and hailing the low discount rate, said he believed the state worked out a good deal on the bonds.

On Foreign Aid

Policy Stalling Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) - A series of policy restrictions including the latest effort to force U. S. withdrawal from Indochina holds the key to final congressional action to extend the foreign aid program.

This view was expressed by both Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Chairman Thomas E. Morgan of the House Foreign Affairs Committee after the Senate completed work Thursday on a twobill $2.6-billion foreign economic and military aid package to replace the single $2.9-billion measure rejected by the Senate Oct. 29.

The two bills now go to the House, which earlier this year approved a $3.4-billion aid measure by just eight votes. Morgan told a reporter he expects the House to pass a smaller bill next week.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said the Senate's action partially reversed the adverse impact of its earlier decision to kill the foreign aid program, but he added that the amount authorized Wednesday is "still far short of what is

In a speech to the National Association of Manufacturers, Laird called the foreign aid program "absolutely essential" to the success of the Nixon doctrine and the strategy of ballistic deterrents.

"To terminate it or reduce it to an inadequate level is to undermine the foreign policy which the administration is carrying out, thus far with significant success," he said.

The defense secretary said the presence of U. S. troops overseas has been an important factor in maintaining peace. If they were pulled out of trouble areas and a vacuum was left behind, he said, "the prospects for peace in these areas become much less encouraging.

The future of the aid program, for which legal authority expires Monday, appears to depend on the new bills. Senate leaders said again they plan no action on the Housepassed interim funding measure for the aid program and several other agencies.

Hurt on Bus

Game May Cause Disabling Injury

(Democrat-Capital Service)

IONIA - A childish game on a school bus Tuesday may have tragic consequences for 14-year-old Curtis Gene Pyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Pyle, Route 1

Curtis, riding home on the Windsor School bus about 4 p.m. Tuesday, was struck in the left eye by a paper wad apparently shot with a rubber band. The direct blow to his eye resulted in his admission to the Johnson County Memorial Hospital, where his doctor is still uncertain about the ultimate damage.

The boy's mother told The Democrat-Capital that the severity of the blow wasn't determined until Wednesday when Curtis was examined by Dr. Floyd Lively in Sedalia.

Dr. Lively, an optometrist, said he recommended the boy be treated immediately by Dr. Wayne Reynolds, a Warrensburg ophthalmologist.

Mrs. Curtis said the family had not contacted Windsor School officials vet about whether the incident would be covered by insurance. She expressed concern, however, that no one on the bus attempted to check how badly her son had been injured.

"There were several kids shooting paper wads and it finally got so heavy it had to be stopped. Then, about ten minutes later, Curtis was hit. That was about a half hour before he reached home," she said.

Mrs. Curtis said she felt there should have been some supervision on the bus since children ranging from high school to kindergarten age ride on it.

Dr. Reynolds told The Democrat-Capital that the direct blow to Curtis' eye caused severe bleeding in the anterior chamber of The injury required that Curtis remain almost completely still in bed to avoid possible future bleeding. Dr. Reynolds said he wouldn't know for at least another three days just how severe the damage to the eye would be. However, partial paralysis of the iris and pupil have resulted. A small portion of the iris was torn, he said.

The nature of the injury, Dr. Reynolds said, could lead to serious complications in future years. "He'll have to have his eyes checked closely and regularly for the rest of his life," Dr. Reynolds said.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - While Protestant churches have run into recurrent uproars over their grants to projects among the poor, the Roman Catholic Church now is pouring funds into that cause with scarcely a ripple of opposition.

We expected more of it but there haven't been very many cases of protest," says Bishop Michael R. Dempsey, of Detroit, national director of the Church's Campaign for Human Development.

"At least not yet," he added in an interview. "It still may come.

But at the present stage, with the program winding up its first year of operation, it has put more than $5 million into the hands of the poor for selfdevelopment without major repercussions in its own ranks.

'We've tried to look ahead to see where difficulties might arise and get local readings on it ahead of time," said the Rev. Robert V. Monticello, of Washington, D.C., a social service expert recently named executive director of the program.

Nevertheless, he said grants have not been confined to safe, noncontroversial groups.

But in cases where the national allocation committee lacks firsthand information, he said on-the-scene assessments are obtained from the area involved before grants are made, with funds then supplied on a quarterly basis and regular progress reports required as the funding continues.

"It's a matter of collaboration between national and local people," he said. "We want to be ready to explain the rationale behind any grant."

Although similar processes are used increasingly in Protestant programs, it wasn't always done initially, and several denominations, including the United Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, have encountered wide dissent to some grants.

Altogether the churches have appropriated more than $100 million to such activity in the last four years, much of it going to black-controlled projects. other sums to endeavors of Indians, Puerto Ricans, Mexican-Americans and poor whites. Consistently, the new prin-

NAB Passes Compromise For Cable

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Association of Broadcasters has given its approval to a compromise agreement that may open up cable television opportunities across the country.

Six years of disputes over copyrights and market rights of local TV stations have kept cable operations from building.

But the NAB Thursday became the second of three parties to the issue to agree to a plan. Wednesday the National Cable Television Association approved the program, which had been worked out by the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy with Federal Communications Commission approval.

The FCC would work from the compromise to set up official regulations.

The plan would allow cable companies in the nation's 100 biggest markets to import two out-of-town channels to supplement whatever was available within the community.

The compromise remains to be approved by the Committee of Copyright Owners, third party to the dispute.

Local television station owners have argued that importing signals would hurt the hometown stations' audience ratings, thus cutting into advertising revenues.

Young Girl Is Rescued From Deed

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) - The Irish Republican Army rescued a girl today from a gang of hooded women who were going to shear her head and tar it for fraternizing with British sol-

She would have been the fourth victim this week of the Women's Revenge Group, a masked band operating in the Bogside and other Roman Catholic sections of Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second

The girl's name was not disclosed. A group of hooded women took her from her home and bundled her into a car, but an IRA squad took her away from them and brought her back home.

The Catholic guerrilla army battling to reunite Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic denied earlier that it was responsible for the treatment of the three girls whose heads were clipped and tarred before street mobs earlier this week.

One of the trio, 19-year-old Marta Doherty, was to be married today to Pvt. John Larter, the British soldier for whom she was humiliated. She was in hiding, and there were reports that the wedding might be held secretly in the army's Ebrington Barracks.

The Women's Revenge Group threatened Thursday night to shear and tar more "soldiers' dolls." A male spokesman for the group charged that the troops were plying the girls with liquor and extracting information from them. In Belfast, hundreds of British soldiers blackened their faces Thursday night for protection against snipers and searched homes and apartments. They arrested 23 suspected terrorists for questioning and seized a quantity of arms and ammunition. The search was launched after two unarmed policemen were shot dead Thursday night while inquiring about a robbery in a liquor store 50 yards from their heavily guarded barracks.

Four men followed the policemen in, ordered the shopkeeper to lie on the floor, and gunned the officers down with automatic weapons.

Eleven police officers have been killed by guerrillas this year. After two years of Catholic-Protestant violence, the death toll in Northern Ireland stands at 157.

The Police Wives Association demanded that police officers be issued automatic weapons to match those being used by gunmen of the Irish Republican Army, which is trying to drive the British out of the

The police wives also appealed to the wives of the guerrillas to use their influence to end the violence.

Nixon Chooses Butz As Hardin Successor

Nixon has nominated a former Eisenhower administration official to lead the nation's farmers to the prosperity he promised during the 1968 campaign

The President accepted the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin Thursday and picked former Asst. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz for the Administration officials made no reference to any political reasons for the change in command. White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was quick to announce Hardin's resignation was totally unrelated to problems of surplus corn and depressed farm prices.

GOP strategists recently had been showing concern about sagging Republican fortunes among Midwestern farmers. The area went heavily for Nixon in 1968 after he promised to improve the parity ratio but the Republicans lost several congressional contests in the Farm Belt in 1970.

Nixon also disclosed he has abandoned a plan to abolish the Agriculture Department.

Under the proposed scheme, major activities of the department would have been absorbed by a proposed Department of Economic Development that would have taken on a number of other functions from the present departments of Labor, Transportation and Commerce.

Hardin is the fifth original Cabinet member to leave since Nixon took office. His resignation had long been predicted in government circles. Hardin said he was leaving to accept a job as vice chairman of the Ralston Purina Co. in St. Louis.

The 56-year-old former University of Nebraska chancellor said in a prepared statement that he was leaving "with the highest admiration for President Nixon and a strong conviction that the courageous steps he has taken and the policies he has enunciated are right for the country at this time.

The nomination of Butz, dean of continuing education and vice president of the Purdue University Research Foundation, met with initial approval from three of the largest farm organizations, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers Union, and the National However, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien called the nomination an attempt to bring back the "discredited agricultural policies" of Ezra Taft Benson, agriculture secretary under President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

O'Brien called Butz "one of the chief architects of the Benson policies during the 1950s that forced hundreds of thousands of farmers off the land.

Butz, a Purdue graduate, is a former Hoosier farmer who worked for the Federal Land Bank in Louisville, Ky., in the mid-1930s before he returned to Purdue as a teacher. A resident of West Lafayette, Ind., he tried to get the Republican state convention nomination for governor of Indiana in 1968 but was

American Mistake Claims 8 Deaths

SAIGON (AP) - U.S. helicopter gunships fired into a South Vietnamese column with rockets and machine guns by mistake, killing eight South Vietnamese and wounding 21, the U.S. Command reported today.

A U.S. communique blamed the South Vietnamese, saying the gunships were supporting Vietnamese troops in contact with the enemy and "placed ordnance on targets as directed" by the ground force. The incident occurred on the central coast Thursday about 280 miles northeast of Saigon. The Command said it was being investigated.

Field reports said the gunships made four or five firing passes before they were warned off by ground troops in radio contact with them. The U.S. Command said there were no American advisers with the South Vietnamese battalion.

Initial reports said five of the enemy troops were killed in the ground fighting. while the South Vietnamese suffered no casualties from enemy fire.

It was the fourth firing accident reported in six weeks. Also on the central coast about 100 miles

Criticizes Rehnquist Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman James O. Eastland issued a 21-page memorandum today responding to what he termed "highly misleading and unfairly prejudicial" testimony against Supreme Court nominee William H. Rehnquist.

The Mississippi Democrat's statement was directed specifically at testimony given by Joseph L. Rauh Jr. and Clarence Mitchell on behalf of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

Rauh, lawyer for the Leadership Conference, also testified as a vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action. Mitchell is director of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Eastland characterized their testimony as erroneous, distorted, exaggerated, unfair and based on hearsay.

And referring to their questioning of Rehnquist's sworn denial that he ever had belonged to the John Birch Society, Eastland accused Rauh and Mitchell of "the crassest type of character assassination.'

Rehnquist, an assistant attorney general, has been nominated by President Nixon, to fill one of the two vacancies on the Supreme Court.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., a Richmond, Va., lawyer and former president of the American Bar Association, has been nominated to fill the other vacancy Little opposition has been voiced to Powell's nomination.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and other liberal Democrats on the Judiciary Committee tried Thursday to get Powell's nomination reported favorably to the Senate floor while holding up action on Rehnquist's nomination.

But committee members supporting both nominations would- not agree to separate action, with the result that neither nomination was voted on.

An attempt to break the stalemate will be made when the committee meets again next Thursday

Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a committee member, said he doubts there will be any prolonged effort to prevent a vote on Rehnquist's nomination. He said such a move would meet "with increasing public disfavor."

Scott also said he expects the committee vote "to be so heavily in favor of both nominees" that there will be no real floor fight against either nomination.

Richard Gardner said it could have relayed firing information to other antiaircraft batteries closer to the border. The F105 fired one Shrike missile, but Gardner said the pilot didn't know what he

A U.S. Army OH6 light observation helicopter was shot down by enemy ground fire deep in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, but the crewmen escaped unhurt.

The South Vietnamese command reported that terrorists set off a mine in a market place 65 miles southwest of Saigon, killing four civilians and wounding 13.

While a general battlefield lull continued across South Vietnam, Communist forces attacked highway posts and a radio transmitting station in Cambodia. It appeared that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong might be trying to cut communications lines prior to a dry season offensive.

Pay Board Exemption Is Urged

MIAMI BEACH (AP) - A union representing relatively low paid textile workers has urged the Pay Board to exempt workers who earn less than $3.50 per hour from the new wage increase limit of 5.5 per cent.

The executive board of the AFL-CIO Textile Workers Union approved a resolution Thursday urging the five labor members of the Pay Board to walk out if they can't win higher wage increases for lower paid workers.

But one labor member on the board, President Floyd Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said, "I think we should stay on the Pay Board."

The labor members were outvoted 10 to 5 by industry and public members in setting the new general wage limit.

"It works to the detriment of the lower paid worker," said William Pollock of the textile workers.

"An increase of 5.5 per cent for the worker earning $4 an hour yields 22 cents an hour while a worker earning the $1.60 an hour federal minimum wage receives less than 9 cents an hour. This is blatantly unfair. It underlines the need for exempting low wage workers entirely from controls,"

Smith's comment, however, reflected the growing feeling of most labor leaders meeting here that organized labor is better off keeping its members on the Pay Board to fight for their demands. AFL-CIO President George Meany, who is due here today, has said it will be up to the AFL-CIO convention opening next Thursday to decide whether he quits the Smith said he thought Meany would decide to stay, along with a third AFL-CIO member, President I. W. Abel of the United Steel Workers, and the heads of two independent unions, Frank Fitzsimmons of the Teamsters and Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers.

"I intend to stay on the board unless my members tell me to quit," said Smith, whose union has some 9,000 workers.

Schedule Tax Cut Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) - With Democratic liberals ready to try to add more individual tax relief, the Senate scheduled opening votes today on a tax-cut bill sought by President Nixon to stimulate the economy and create jobs

The $15.5-billion measure is the tax portion of the President's new economic policy, and it has survived the House and the Senate Finance Committee as basically what the administration proposed.

Leaders are pushing for final action on the measure by the middle of next week, but dozens of proposed amendments must be dealt with before the final vote.

The Finance Committee approved the bill without major change from the version passed by the House Oct. 6. But Senate managers of the measure conceded some changes might be made on the floor.

Democratic liberals have argued that the bill is lopsided in favor of business and said they would fight to increase relief for individuals. Having failed in the effort in the committee, they pledged a continued attempt on the Senate floor.

As it reached the floor, the measure contained the major business incentives asked by Nixon, including restoration of the 7-per-cent investment credit on new machinery and equipment, accelerated depreciation provisions, and a new provision to encourage American companies to expand export sales.

For individuals, the bill advances the dates for increases in the personal exemption-to $750 next year, compared with $650 now-and contains a new $1,300 minimum standard deduction to help lowincome families.

Americans Testifying In Thefts

LONDON (AP) - Bleary eyed from a night of questioning, seven Americans appeared in a London court today in connection with the theft of $30 million worth of stocks and bonds in Chicago.

The court ordered the men held in Brixton prison for another hearing next Friday in Marlborough Street magistrates' court. This is customary in British criminal cases until the police investigation is completed.

The seven Americans, arrested Thursday night in raids on apartments in the swank Mayfair district, were Rudolph Johnson, 48, a film producer living in Cannes, on the French Riviera; Charles Samuel Bufalini, 52, Los Angeles; Terry Somenzi, 29, Highland Park, Ill.; Nicholas Avenetti, 44, North Hollywood, Calif.; James Walker Pettinotti, 39, Marina Del Ray, Calif.; Marion Arthur Denard, 50, London, and Frank Marco Sardo, 35, another film producer of North Beach, Calif. They were charged with conspiring to dispose of stolen goods.

The prosecution said $12.5 million worth of bonds and stock certificates were found during the arrests,"the part proceeds of a $30 million theft." FBI sources here said the robbery took place at the American Banknote Co. in Chicago in August. FBI agents said a truck owned by Mark IV Freight Co. of Chicago was hijacked last Aug. 18 while transporting 18,000 blank stock certificates from a printing plant to a transfer agent.

The FBI said the seven men were charged in Los Angeles Thursday with conspiracy to violate laws on the interstate transportation of stolen property laws. The prosecutor told the London magistrates a search was on in Britain and the United States for the other $17.5 million worth of stock certificates. "These men are believed to be connected with a criminal organization based in Los Angeles," he said. In accordance with British court procedure, the men were not asked to make formal pleas at the preliminary hearing. But in asking for bail, three of the defendants told Magistrate J. R. T. Hooper: "I am not guilty. The magistrate ignored the pleas and refused bail. None of the seven men had a lawyer in the tiny, wood-panelled court-

"I never met any of these gentlemen before except one," protested Johnson, who said he had once made a movie with Sardo. "I asked him to bring me some cigarettes and when I went to get them, we were sitting there talking about old times and I was arrested with the others.' Sentence Two Men

In Circuit Court

Dennis Wayne Carson, 2107 South Harrison, and Charles E. Durley, St. Louis, withdrew not guilty pleas and entered pleas of guilty in Pettis County Circuit Court Thursday

Carson was sentenced to serve two concurrent two-year terms in the State Penitentiary on charges of second degree burglary and stealing. He was placed on probation for three years.

Carson was arrested with Sammy Joe Davis, 1004 South Missouri, in connection with a break-in of the Firestone Store, West Highway 50, on Sept. 12, 1971.

Merchandise valued at $1,199 was reportedly taken in the break-in. Davis was bound over to the December term of Circuit Court in Magistrate Court

Durley was sentenced to a two-year term in the State Penitentiary and given credit for time served in the Pettis County Jail on a charge of issuing an account-closed check to Lester Cramer at the Tempo store here. The $310.55 check was issued on the Jefferson Bank and Trust Company, May 16th, 1969 to pay for a color television.

Freda Payne Goes Commercial

By MARY CAMPBELL AP Newsfeatures Writer

Freda Payne decided to go commercial and the attempt was successful. Since signing with Invictus Records, she has had two million-selling singles, "Band of Gold" and "Bring the Boys Home," plus a new single, "You Brought the Joy," which went from 54 to 45 on the bestselling chart on Oct. 30.

"Bring the Boys Home" was banned by the U.S. Command from the American Forces Vietnam Network. Miss Payne says, "I like songs that have more to say than just something on the surface. The people I work with would not want me to record anything outstandingly controversial. 'Bring the Boys Home' is expressing the sentiments of most of the public.

Miss Payne used to be a jazz singer. But, she says, "I started becoming very depressed and more or less beaten by the fact my career wasn't going anywhere. The end of 1965 to 1967 was like a downer. I almost left the business and got married. But I was saved.

"I went back into the full swing of things in 1967. A friend talked me into auditioning to be Leslie Uggams' understudy in 'Hallelujah Baby.' This to me was a far-fetched idea. I'd never explored the idea of Broadway. But I auditioned and surprisingly to me I got the job. I went on five times.

After that was when I really became involved with Holland-Dozier-Holland. I knew them from high school in Detroit. They were young ghetto guys. I knew Brian Holland, and Lamont Dozier I went to junior high school with. Eddie Holland I didn't know that well, but everybody sort of knew every-body. That was when Barry Gordy was a poor man and nobody knew he was going to be what he became.

"The three of them were instigating their plans. They wanted to work with me and they told me just not to sign with anybody else until they were ready to go. I said yes. I decided I was going to go commercial. What better choice would I make than people I knew from my own home town? I'd come to believe they were the best in their category in the business.

Before going to Holland-Doz-ier-Holland's new record label, Invictus, where she has made two albums, "Band of Gold" and "Contact," Miss Payne had recorded for Impulse and MGM.

"They choose all my material. I went into it with the attitude of taking direction and listening to them, whatever they had to say, because as far as I was concerned, I was never successful in choosing commercial material. I might as well rely on their professionalism and skill and opinion.

That was my attitude. I accepted their material and did exactly what they wanted me to do. Now I think I'd like to be a little bit more myself; still be as commercial as their choice might be but do something from my brain."

When Miss Payne was growing up, she had an uncle who collected classical records. Classical was the first music she heard. Her mother sent her for lessons in piano, voice, ballet, modern dance and acting.

"Mother's idea was to make sure that I had some artistic culture. Ballet was to get the kinks out, because I was a tom-

Miss Payne lives now in Los Angeles and is thinking about buying a house. She travels a lot, mostly playing nightclubs.

Department Urges Loan Hike Support

By KENNETH J. FREED Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Much of the attention centered on the U.S. foreign aid program involves such cosmic matters as global diplomacy and world economics, but there are 12,400 people with a more immediate interest—their jobs.

And in some cases the concern of employes of the Agency for International Development goes well beyond a paycheck. or lack thereof.

For the 3,400 American AID employes overseas, the death of the foreign aid program now scheduled for Nov. 15 means they could be stranded, left to their own devices to stay alive or get home.

The 3,000 AID workers in the United States face the serious but less-drastic problem of going off the payroll next Monday. There are 2,000 foreign nationals working for AID in their own countries who are in the same situation.

All of this, of course, isn't certain with Congress still considering a continuing resolution to renew temporarily the foreign aid program at last year's levels. This would keep the AID administration going.

Capt. John Grieve

U.S. military life in Castro's Cuba was described to Sedalia Kiwanians at their meeting Hotel.

Capt. John R. Grieve, USN, who until four months ago was chief of staff at the U.S. Naval Base, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, presented the program. He is presently commanding officer of the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, Kansas City.

With the aid of color slides. Captain Grieve reviewed the 1934 treaty signed between the United States and Cuba, which is the legal basis for the Navy base's continued existence in the Communist country.

Captain Grieve showed how the Navy base at Guantanamo Bay is laid out, the perimeter defenses maintained by both the U.S. and Cuba, and how both sides have maintained a kind of quiet tension since Castro's takeover.

A total of about 8,500 persons are located on the base, the speaker said. This includes Naval and Marine Corps personnel, dependents, Jamaican workers and Cuban exiles. Some 300 Cubans are allowed to work on the base, but must return a large portion of their pay to the Cuban government, Captain Grieve pointed out.

The base has its own plant for converting salt water into drinking water, the speaker said. This was necessary after the U.S. cut the water line into the base in 1965.

Captain Grieve said the base serves an important function in training fleet units from the United States, and for surveillance of Communist sea and air traffic in the area. He conceded that the political importance of the base has assumed greater importance in recent years, however.

The speaker was introduced by Doug Kneibert, program

Bob Fritz introduced the Rev. Phil Newell as his guest. Birthday greetings were extended to Henry Keeler.

President-elect Jim Ryan presided in the absence of President Jim Woods.

So would passage of a new foreign aid program, also under congressional study as is the possibility of an emergency bill that would fund the AID operation until the whole matter is straightened out.

In fact, all these possibilities are part of the anxiety being felt by the AID employes. And AID sources say no contingency plans for bringing home the oversees employes have been made.

What the AID workers are being told is a mixture of optimistic forecasts about the continuing resolution and advice to hold tight.

John A. Hannah, administrator of AID, has circulated letters among the agency offices "encouraging the field to believe a continuing resolution will be passed," one source

But some AID workers aren't taking the matter so well. 'Hell, some of us think the administration was using the loss of our jobs to strong-arm Congress into passing a continuing resolution," said one. "Now it doesn't look like it will work and we're left holding the

From the other side is the claim there is simply no money that can be shifted to cover pay and transfers

A General Accounting Office opinion ruled out using money from foreign assistance funds that were appropriated earlier but not yet spent.

They say the AID pay period extends until then. However, State officials deny this, saying the end of the program on the 15th kills the matter.

Farm Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has stepped up a campaign urging farmers to put more 1971-crop corn under the protection of support loans as a move to help improve market prices.

By doing so, officials also are subtly fencing with congressional proponents of a "strategic reserve" plan under which the government would buy millions of bushels of wheat and feed as a method of .. strengthening prices at the farm level.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service called attention Wednesday to recent actions enabling corn-swamped farmers to get price support loans and overcome local storage difficulties.

Officials said they are 'strongly urging' farmers to make use of the loan program.

The added encouragement for farmers to put more corn under loan came as the strategic reserve plan gained steam on Capitol Hill. A Senate agriculture subcommittee heard testimony Wednesday on the reserve plan-already approved by the House farm panel-including charges the government's new "set-aside" plan for curbing crop output is not working.

The reserve plan calls for government stockpiling of up to 300 million bushels of wheat and 30 million tons of feed

Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin has opposed the reserve plan, asserting the "With 83 per cent of the 1971 present price support apparatus serves the same purpose by re-

Meanwhile, the USDA has taken several actions aimed at relieving grain storage shortages and cutting red tape in making loans available to corn

Last month the department issued orders allowing emergency loans on unshelled corn regardless of whether stored in approved shelters, even if piled on the ground Also, the department said farmers can have their corn accepted at warehouses for loans even if storage is filled. The grain then would be moved at government expense to terminal facilities where storage is available hearing examiner's initial decision in the segregation charge brought against the local school district indicates that while Sedalia has been absolved of intentional segregation, a big task still lies ahead.

The examiner's finding that the district has not intentionally assigned pupils and teachers on the basis of race is the only reasonable one in view of the facts. He makes the crucial point that this is not a case of "de jure" segregation, supported by the force of law, but "de facto" segregation, the result of housing patterns within the city.

Having said that, there is still more to be said. In the words of the hearing examiner, Sedalia's sin may be one of ommission rather than commission.

In this initial decision, the burden is put on the Sedalia school system to make a concerted effort examiner further notes that Sedalia perhaps has not done everything it could have done in the past to achieve this goal.

Some recent court decisions have tended to blur the distinction between de jure and de facto segregation. Orders in Michigan and elsewhere have been that school integration must be accomplished, whatever the roots of the problem might be

By reading between the lines of the Sedalia decision, one feels that the local district is being advised to begin eliminating de facto school segregation here before the courts do it for us at some future date.

WASHINGTON - The White House is making quiet preparations to prevent the rise of another J. Edgar Hoover.

Well before President Nixon calls in the mastiff-faced crimefighter for a final visit and sends him the last laudatory "Dear Edgar" letter, a proposal will be ready to limit the next FBI director's term.

The staff work already has been started at both the White House and Justice Department on an executive order, or possibly a statute, to establish a fixed term. The tentative thinking is that no future FBI chief should serve longer than seven years.

Almost no one in Washington wants to see another FBI chief attain J. Edgar Hoover's immense power. It is a measure of his power that those who now seek to curb it are working in fearful secrecy.

No attorney general, though supposedly Hoover's superior, has been able to control him. Presidents who may have wished to replace him have always thought better of the idea. Lyndon Johnson even waived the government's wise rule of mandatory retirement at 70 so Hoover could continue. And on Capitol Hill, the FBI is accorded the same deference as motherhood.

We have thoroughly explored the sources of Hoover's unique power. We have talked to White House aides and Justice Department officials, past and present.

All agree that Hoover has been able to cow Washington officialdom largely because he keeps files on the high and mighty. He has amassed raw information on Presidents and peons alike that fill miles of cabinets. Few politicians, therefore, will stand up to him for fear he might leak out derogatory reports against them. They know Hoover doesn't hesitate to traffic in unevaluated information. He has furnished undercover reports, backstairs gossip and other titillating tidbits to his political allies.

The durable old G-man has taken special pains to provide Presidents with intimate information from FBI files. This has usually given him direct access to the man in the White House.

In President Nixon's case, Hoover has been slipping him FBI data for years. This information helped Nixon to build a reputation as an anti-Communist crusader during his early days in Congress. The two men have now become close personal friends. Nixon likes to recall how he applied for a job with the FBI after his graduation from Duke and to kid Hoover about rejecting his application. The FBI chief blames it on an appropriations cut.

Yet the President believes Hoover is hurting himself and the FBI by hanging on to his job. Nixon desperately would like to find a graceful way to replace the old curmudgeon without bringing dishonor upon him.

Hoover established his closest relationship with Lyndon Johnson who, as a senator, had lived across the street from him. LBJ always had a fine appreciation for a story about a leader's extracurricular love life, and Hoover kept him supplied with reports on the private hijinks of prominent Americans.

At the 1964 convention, Hoover assigned an FBI team, including his trusted No. 3 man, C. D. DeLoach, to Johnson. The FBI men acted as personal political investigators for LBJ who wanted to keep traack of every move at the Atlantic City convention, particularly the activities of

As attorney general, Kennedy committed the unpardonable offense of issuing direct orders to FBI agents. The ice that formed between Hoover and Kennedy caused a chill felt all over Washington.

Yet Hoover maintained liaison with the Kennedys while they were in power by some slick administrative sleight of hand. The Kennedys had come to trust a dedicated young agent, Courtney Evans. Aware of this, Hoover split one of his units and created a special investigative division so Evans could be made an assistant

At that level, Evans could deal with the mighty. And Evans, to his credit, acted loyally as a liaison between the sulky old director and the Kennedys. Yet President Kennedy had made it clear, recall intimates, that he intended to retire Hoover at age 70.

But there was a new man in the White House on Jan. 1, 1964, when Hoover passed the 70-year mark. Indeed, it was Hoover who notified Robert Kennedy that his President-brother was dead in Dallas. The attorney general told intimates afterward that Hoover "was not quite as excited as if he were reporting the fact that he had found a Communist on the faculty of Howard University."

Thereafter, the two men scarcely spoke 'to each other, and the chill extended to the

Hoover had Dwight Eisenhower's ear throughout his two terms in the White House. As one former aide told us: "Ike went for Edgar hook, line and sinker."

But not Harry Truman. With rare exceptions, the gritty Truman dealt with the FBI chief at arms length and compelled him to work through the attorney general.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, despite his patrician tastes, came to depend on Hoover and dealt with him directly when he needed ammunition against his enemies. By 1939, Hoover was in such good graces at the White House that FDR did by executive order what might not have been possible by law. Roosevelt gave Hoover, with the stroke of a pen, control over all intelligence gathering, counter-espionage and security in the U.S.

When Hoover at last retires, he will have to give up his files with the intimate details about so many lives. The powers in Washington are determined that these files don't fall into the hands of another J. Edgar Hoover.

Religion Not Focus Of Prayer Dispute

WASHINGTON — Now that the House has rejected the school prayer amendment. it ought to be obvious to Americans that that bitter confrontation really had nothing to do with religiosity or piety prayers by almost 5 to 1, but Democrats opposing the proposed Constitutional amendment by a margin of 5 to 4. Does anyone propose to argue that Republicans are more devout than Democrats?

We see Republicans favoring school

We see members of the Black Caucus lined up solidly against the amendment. Does anyone contend that this proves whites are more godly than blacks?

The vote and the debate preceding it made it pretty clear that this was just a struggle of political ideologies, of liberals vs. conservatives, of those who cherish the Bill of Rights and those who find that it keeps getting in the way of their pet ideas as to what kind of country this ought to be.

Most revealing, perhaps, were the remarks of the Ohio housewife, Mrs. Ben Ruhlin, who had made school prayers her special crusade and had battled persistently to get it to a vote in the House.

After expressing her desire for some show of love and respect for God in the schools, a television reporter asked: "But what about the people who don't want

"They can live here, but we don't want them running our country," Mrs. Ruhlin replied. "It's just like Communists. They can live here, but we don't want them running our country.'

This is the old "them" and "us" mentality that permeates so much of our society. The great crusader for prayer has already decided that people who aren't for prayer, or presumably who don't pray, must not have a role in governing. The next step is to say that "we don't want them running the government" because "they" refuse to pray the prayers we pray.

Small wonder that some of the most devout men in the House voted against the prayer amendment. They saw it for what it was: at attempt to erode the Bill of Rights by people who would like to impose their views of morality, righteousness, political wisdom and human worth on everyone Revealing also were the remarks of Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes (D.-Fla.) who noted that the Supreme Court that outlawed school prayers was the "same court that said newspapers can lie about you, that Communist-oriented newspapers can publish any government secrets it can buy or steal, and that has prescribed rules to protect the rights of criminals against the

from a man whose alleged goal was to get God back into the schools

It would be pleasant enough to forget the school prayer debate as just another challenge beaten back. But when we see it as the political assault that it was, and note how narrowly it was repulsed, we dare not

All the issues about which Americans grow passionate these days are easily reduced to the "them" and "us" syndrome. "Them," the criminals, and 'us," the law-abiding people. "Them," the welfare chiselers, and "us," the working people. "Them," the minorities trying to move into "our" suburban neighborhoods.

All too often, the "thems" are the weak, the oppressed, the have-nots, and about the only thing they have going for them is the Bill of Rights and the Fourteenth Amendment. Which is why the "us" and 'our country' crowd gets so disgusted with the Bill of Rights. It makes it so inconvenient for the "us" gang to control or get rid of "them."

If only the passions that make a majority were required to change the Constitution, not only would we now have prayer in the schools and a bedlam of religious conflict. but the Bill of Rights would surely be stripped away.

And that is testimony anew to the wisdom of the men who drafted that Constitution and made it so hard to change.

Pipeline Explosion Injures 3 Persons

EAST ST. LOUIS, III. (AP) -Gas leaking from a pipeline exploded Thursday, burning a woman severely, injuring two of her grandchildren slightly and destroying her home.
Assistant Fire Chief Peter

Lisaganich said gas leaking from an eight-inch Illinois Power Co., line exploded about 6 p.m., setting fire to the home of Mrs. Algrette Croom, 48.

Lisaganich said Mrs. Croom was burned over 70 per cent of her body. She was treated at Christian Welfare and St. Elizabeth's Hospitals in East St. Louis and transferred to a hospital in St. Louis.

The grandchildren, aged 18 months and 8 months, were hurt slightly in the explosion.

The fire was not completely extinguished until early today. when the pipeline running behind Mrs. Croom's home was sealed off.

Protest Holiday's New Date

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Resolutions protesting the change in the date of Veterans Day from Nov. 11 to Oct. 25 were adopted by elements of two veterans organizations in Missouri Thursday-the anniversary of the World War I armistice

The 4th and 5th Districts of the Organized veterans of World War I adopted a resolution and another was approved by the American Legion 10th District in a meeting at University City.

Representatives of both groups said changing the date of the observance also changes the meaning of the day.

"Nothing happened on Oct. 25 except that it was designated as Veterans Day, whereas Nov. 11 has been observed for more than 50 years as the anniversary of the end of World War I.' said Ernest G. Keefer of Rock Hill, deputy national chief of staff of the World War I veter-

A. W. Scheetz, commander of District 11, criticized the action making Veterans Day part of a three-day weekend.

"Veterans Day isn't a holiday on which you're supposed to go out and enjoy yourself. It's a solemn occasion," he said. Bert Casselman of Kansas City, Missouri Legion commander, had a similar com-"This is a day when we honor veterans. It lacks meaning when you set it on a holiday when people take off on a weekend for personal enjoyment," he said "It's a traditional thing."

said Milton Hass of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7980. "The older veterans feel what little they have left is being taken away from them.

'Also," he added, "we don't feel we should be making any more three-day weekends. Too many people are being killed on the highways on these flying weekend trips.

Genetic Malfunction Cause of Mongolism

Dear Dr. Lamb - Would ou please give me some information about mongoloids? What causes mongoloids to be born like they are? In all our families, I never knew of one and then at 39 years of age one was born to my daughter even though she had mal children. In husband's family, there an idiot. was Her husband said a doctor asked them if there were any twins in either family. I have twin brothers, both normal. Well, I never heard of such a thing-did you?

About 10 or 12 years ago I am sure I read where dogs or a germ from dogs somehow could cause trouble to a pregnant woman's baby. At the time they bred bulldogs and my daughter helped deliver the pups. Well, they never heard of such a thing. Please enlighten us.

Dear Reader - Mongols are so named because the head and face resemble the features of a mongol - a rounded head. changes in the eyes and other typical features. Many of them have severe mental retardation or remain helpless.

The defect is caused by the genes (chromosomes) and occurs during development very early in fetal life. The genes each of us have determine the color of our hair, eyes, and most of our physical characteristics. These can be affected by many factors, some of which are hereditary.

The whole story on the causes of mongols is not known. Actually, it recurs in families in only about three per cent of the cases. The most striking observation is that mongols tend to be born to older women, suggesting that the older ova from the mother or other features in the woman's reproductive system must be the important factor. The average age of the mothers of mongols is 33 years, and of normal children, 26. You mentioned that your daughter was 39 and this was her fourth child - a history quite consistent with a mongol birth. Male mongols are sterile. Some female mongols can reproduce and half of their children will be mongols, if this should occur.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D. By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. There is no evidence that having twins in the family predisposes to having mongols.

And there is no evidence that I know of that dogs can in any way be implicated in the occurrence. In view of the common association with the mother's age and mongols, it probably would be unwise for your daughter at her age to plan on having any more children if three other nor-she can avoid it. Although there are exceptions, most mongols are better off under institutional care and are often happier there. The problems associated with having a mongol in the home can have an adverse effect on the other children.

LINCOLN - Sacred Heart dropped a close, 62-57 semifinal game to top-seeded Warsaw Thursday night in the Kaysinger Conference Tournament. In the night's other action, Lincoln pulled a mild upset over sixthseeded Smithton, 46-43.

Jeff Karigan checked 6'6' center Doug Stevens and held the potent junior to only four points, but the Wildcats' outside shooting vaulted Warsaw into the championship game.

Playing tight man-to-man defense underneath, the Grems forced Warsaw to take the outside shot, but the trick backfired as the Wildcats found the range behind the doublepoint performances of forwards Eddie Barnes and Bob Miller and guards Steve Barb and Dennis Mills.

Barnes, leading all scorers in the game with 18, paced a balanced shooting attack for the Wildcats. Barb checked in with 15 from his guard slot, while Miller and Mills added 13 and 12 in that order.

Sacred Heart took a 15-13 lead only other Sacred Heart player as the first period closed, but in double figures with 10. found themselves behind by one at the half, 29-28.

Warsaw was not able to pull away in the third period and the Grems went into the final stanza behind by a scant three Sacred Heart pulled to within two points late in the game, but Steve Barb sank three important charity tosses in the final minute of play to ice the game for the Wildcats.

Sacred Heart was without the services of starting forward Bill Freund, who had to skip the game due to an injured ankle.

Also missing from the Grems' lineup was guard Dan Borchers, who sustained an eye injury in Monday night's game, which required seven stitches.

Jeff Karigan, who has paced the Gremlins in the scoring department in the early going of the season, was the leading scorer for Sacred Heart with 17 points. Mark Dunham came off the bench to play his best game to date in the campaign, added 12 points. Bill Starka was the

Roadrunners Blast Whiteman, 109-80

State Fair Community College put on a powerful offensive display in their soap scrimmage game with Whiteman Air Force Base Thursday night and posted a 109-80 victory over the airmen.

Jim Lassiter, a 6'3" gunner from Freedom, Pa., rifled in 32 points to lead all scorers in the game by a wide margin.

SFCC's 6'7" pivot man, Clarence Hampton from Macon, Ga., netted 17; Jerry Dieckmann, Fulton, and Duane Kraettli, Hermann, Mo., tossed in 13 and 12 points respectively to round out the Roadrunners in double figures.

State Fair used their press and fast break to open up a 64-39 lead at the halfway point.

Our press worked real well in the first half," said Roadrunner coach Bill Barton after the game. "We stole the ball well off the press and were able to score off it," he added. Offensively State Fair looked tough, hitting 27 of 47 in the opening period. For the game, the Roadrunners hit well over 50 per cent from the field. Clarence Hampton al stole the show from Lassiter, as Hampton pulled down 18 rebounds to go with his 17 points. Hampton also blocked five shots during the 24 minutes

Lassiter hauled in 10 caroms and Myles Yates, Urbana, Mo., got nine rebounds to go along with his nine points.

Final Tests Saturday

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The stage is set for Saturday's final warmup tests for top-ranked Nebraska and second-ranked Oklahoma before their national and Big Eight Conference headto-head title collision Nov. 25.

Warmups

Nebraska, with a 9-0 record and no defeats in 28 straight games, invades Kansas State. Oklahoma, 8-0 and the nation's leader in total offense, celebrates its homecoming against Kansas

Neither Coach Bob Devaney of Nebraska nor Coach Chuck Fairbanks thinks there's any chance his team will be looking beyond Saturday's opponent toward the turkey day showdown. "There will be no looking ahead," Devaney says flatly. "The Kansas game means too much to us," insists Fair-

Iowa State and Colorado hope to bolster their postseason bowl chances in games at Ames, Iowa and Boulder, Colo. The Cyclones, 5-3, will face Missouri. Twelfth-ranked Colorado. 7-2, is host to Oklahoma State. Kansas State, 4-5 this season and 24 in conference play, has downed Missouri and Oklahoma State the past two weeks on Dennis Morrison's left-handed passing. Undoubtedly, the Wildcats will use this same weapon as their main approach against the Cornhuskers, the league leaders with 5-0 Morrison is currently the hottest passer in the conference and is No. 1 in that department by a slight margin over Nebraska's Jerry Tagge.

'We're capable of beating them," Morrison says.

Wildcat Coach Vince Gibson notes that "you can't make mistakes and have a chance against Nebraska. They are patient, and they kill you with basic soundness.

Devaney is aware that the Wildcats have come back from early frustrations "and scored more points against Missouri than Oklahoma did and almost as much against Oklahoma State as we did.'

Fifty-eight thousand will be on hand for the Oklahoma-Kansas game which will be televised throughout about one-half of the nation. The Sooners are physically, including halfback Joe Wylie

Like Nebraska, the Sooners. 4-0 in the league, will be out to impress the bowl scouts one last time before the money boys start extending bids after the Nov. 20 action.

'We will have to play complete football to beat Kansas,' Fairbanks says. "Kansas is very close to having a very good offensive team.

Coach Don Fambrough of Kansas, 3-6 and 1-4, is stringing along with the Jayhawks' same defense with a "few little adjustments" to try to stop Jack Mildren and his awesome wishbone triple option.

"I don't know how you defense against everything they've got," Fambrough admits. "They say you've got a fourth option. You can decide how to let them beat you ... inside or outside.

Oklahoma State, 4-3-1 and 2-2, embarrassed by blowing a 17-0 halftime lead before losing to Kansas State, hopes to make amends against Colorado, 4-2 in the Big Eight, and perhaps wreck the Buffs' bowl chances.

Cowboy Coach Floyd Gass predicts "it'll be a tough chore. We can make a serious run at them, though, if we just kick out some of the mistakes we have been making. When our offense and defense put it together, we will play anybody

The game could shape up as a battle of speed between Colorado's Cliff Branch and sophomore Charlie Davis and the Cowpokes' Dickie Graham, who doubles at quarterback and

Iowa State will be out to even its league record, now 2-3, and perhaps move closer to a bowl invitation against Missouri, 1-8 and 0-5. Coach Johnny Majors is hopeful his Cyclones will "bounce back mentally and recover physically" from last week's 37-0 loss to Nebraska.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio has described the Iowa State defense as "one of the toughest in the Big Eight.

The Cyclones are favored to make it two in a row over the Bengals. Iowa State won last season 31-19 for its first triumph over Missouri in 15 years on scoring runs of 77, 34 and 8 yards by George Amundson, who will be around again

BALTIMORE (AP) - John Unitas, voted the greatest quarterback in the history of professional football, doesn't like his role as Baltimore's backup signal caller.

The failure to play in the exhibitions helped decide McCafferty's course of action for the regular season.

"When the season starts," Unitas said, "all games are crucial. You just don't send a player in and tell him to get in condition at that point.

The weatherman has predicted generally clear, crisp weather for the opening.

Last year in a 10-day season gun hunters killed 28,290 deer in Missouri. This year the season has been shortened to nine days but the system of regions-or management unitshas been retained.

For the gun season, from Nov. 13 through Nov. 21, the shooting hours will be from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and every successful hunter must immediately tag his deer and transport it to the checking station in the county where the kill was made or in an adjoining

Small Golf Ball Draws Criticism

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) - Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino are playing the smaller British ball instead of the American ball in the World Cup Golf Matches here this week, but both insist they like the American ball better.

'It's a matter of necessityyou have to play the smaller ball or give too much advantage to the rest of the field, said Nicklaus, whose 68 sent him into the individual firstround lead in the 46-nation tournament.

The small ball is worth 3 to 3½ strokes a round to the experienced player. To the average player maybe six strokes a

The club is sponsoring the turkey shoot in order to raise lunds to pay for high school football equipment

At Tuesday's meeting, it was decided that the organization would meet every fourth Thursday. Meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. in the Sweet Springs High School cafeteria

The British ball cuts better into the wind, travels farther and putts more firmly. The American ball sits higher in the rough and is easier to finesse.

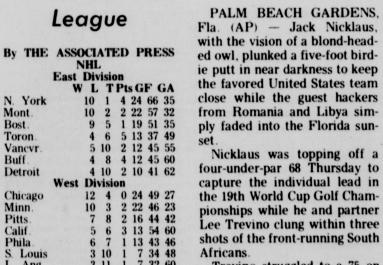

The Royal & Ancient of St. Andrews and the U.S. Golf Association, the two rules makers of the game, are currently experimenting with a uniform ball which would be 1.66 inches around. Most manufacturers in both countries, faced with a multimillion dollar retooling job are fighting the compromise.

Meanwhile, most of the golfers of the world, including the 92 hand-picked players competing here, continue to use the smaller ball when given a choice. The ratio is about 15-1 using the English pellet.

"I use the bigger ball-I'm more comfortable with it and I don't mind giving up the distance," said Christy O'Connor of Ireland.

'I prefer the American ball-I play it in the British PGA tournaments where the bigger ball is mandatory," said Donald Gammon of Rhodesia. Both the Rhodesian and Nigerian teams play the larger ball. Virtually all the others use the smaller

Extra Points Never Hurt

West's double of three spades was one of those match-point doubles. He felt that his partner would make three hearts and score 140 points and that he needed 200 points for a good score. At rubber bridge he would

This double succeeded better than he had hoped. He opened the ace of diamonds and continued the suit in spite of receiving the three spot from his partner. Then he grabbed the first trump lead and played a club. This wasn't really a difficult play. He wanted to put his partner in and the ace of hearts was looking him right in the face. East cashed the ace and then the king of clubs. After that he gave his partner a diamond ruff for the fifth defensive trick and was able to ruff a club for a sixth trick and a nice 500 points in the plus column. It turned out that this extra trick penalty was nec-essary since East-West pairs took the push to four hearts.

A trump opening followed by a lead of a third round of trumps before East could get started on ruffing dia-monds in dummy would beat this game but all South players opened a spade. After this lead declarer could make four hearts by playing the ace and another diamond immediately.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - By April and the end of the current television season, the three major networks will have broadcast almost 80 new, made-for-TV filmed features which run for 90 minutes or two hours.

When a regularly employed TV-series performer appears in one he is likely to be moonlighting for fun and acting exercise.

It will be that kind of night for Lorne Greene tonight when he plays a boozy, unhappy lettuce farmer trapped in a marriage with a dominating woman in an adaptation of a John Steinbeck story, "The Harness," one of NBC's "World Premiere" features.

"I certainly enjoyed doing it and I am now the best tractor driver among the actors in Hollywood after shooting it in Salinas," Greene boasted with a

Whatever his driving skills, it is a big switch in image for the actor who for 13 seasons has played that wise, gray rancher of the Old West, Ben Car-

All through the "Bonanza" years, Greene has made sporadic efforts to avoid being typed—difficult if not impossible since he rides his quarter horse on camera every Sunday night and extra curricular appearances are possible only infrequently.

Before made-for-TV shows, Lorne annually hung up his bucskins and buttoned on a tuxedo to host the finals of a beauty contest. He occasionally cut a record album-Western ballads mostly. His annual Thanksgiving Day stint, co-hosting NBC's coverage of a department store parade in New York, is just a promotional spin-off of his regular job.

This will be my second TV movie." the millionaire actor said. "I really enjoy these extra things. I did a nightclub act in Vegas one year, too. I've never been unhappy with 'Bonanza,' but I believe that a man must continually test himself and meet new challenges."

In New York during a trip around the country plugging the TV feature, Greene said that when he left his native Canada in 1953, he planned to "act for 10 years and then become a producer."

sights have changed.

'When 'Bonanza' ends. I want to do a season of Shakespeare, maybe in Canada or maybe in Minneapolis," he said. "Then I would like to make a definitive motion picture. And then I'd like to do a Broadway musical."

By that time Lorne may be the oldest performer in the history of musical comedy.

Tobacco Estimate Is Down

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department estimated Thursday this year's tobacco production would total 1,-804 million pounds, about five per cent less than last year's crop.

The November prediction was up five million pounds from last month's forecast. The department said increased yields on flue-cured and cigar type to-bacco accounted for the in-

The department said the average yield for all types of tobacco was forecast at 2,119 pounds per acre, about three pounds less than 1970.

Flue-cured tobacco production was estimated at 1,102 million pounds with a yield of 2,055 pounds per harvested acre, down 8 per cent from last year's 1,193 million pounds.

Burley tobacco production was estimated at 545 million pounds, the same as last month's prediction and 15 million pounds below last year's total crop. The yield was figured at 2,513 pounds per acre compared with 2,560 pounds a year ago.

The estimates for the various types of tobacco by states followed with last year's production included:

Record Production Gain In Corn Crop Estimate

Hardin announced his resignation Thursday, about the time his department issued a new estimate of this year's corn crop showing production gains of 152 million bushels in Octo-

The new estimate put the crop at more than 5.55 billion bushels and some 750 million more than USDA officials say is needed for the coming year.

Earl L. Butz, dean of continuing education at Purdue University, was named as Hardin's successor and he immediately acknowledged corn prices were too low and pledged efforts to help bolster them.

The Crop Reporting Board announcement on the larger corn output overshadowed the elation last week of sales to the Soviet Union of 80 million bush-

Corn yields were forecast at a record 86.6 bushels per acre, compared with 71.7 last year when farmers produced a blight-damaged crop of 4.1 billion bushels.

Teachers Unsure Cf Contracts

FULTON, Mo. (AP) - Missouri school teachers still don't know what effect the end of the wage-price freeze Saturday will have on their contracts, an educator says.

L. E. Lewis, Fulton's superintendent of schools, said Thursday he learned in Jefferson City that the Pay Board had canceled a move to let teachers have any wage increases called for by their 1971-72 contracts.

Delmar A. Cobble, deputy state education commissioner. told a regional conference in Hannibal Wednesday that a telegram from the Pay Board authorized Missouri school districts to put the contracts into effect at their scheduled wage

Lewis said he went to the commissioner's office Thursday to check on the situation, and there he was shown a second telegram from the Pay Board stating that "no action should be taken" on the first telegram.

Under President Nixon's order, salary increases in the 1971-72 contracts were withheld if the teachers were not working when the 90-day freeze became effective Aug. 15. pita consumption of poultry in-

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agri- The larger corn estimate creased to 37.3 pounds in 1970 culture Secretary Clifford M. helped boost total feed grain from 8.7 in 1950, prices charged production this year to an indicated record of 206 million tons, including corn, oats, barley and sorghums, up 29 per cent from 1970.

The department's "all crops" production index rose to 113 per cent of the 1967 level used for comparison, a one point gain from October.

Other crops estimated Thursday included: Soybeans 1.2 billion bushels, up 2 per cent from October and a record; and sorghum grain 890 million bushels. down slightly from last month but still record large.

There were no new estimates for wheat, but the 1971 crop already had been put at a record 1.6 billion bushels

The Agriculture Department has announced sharp cutbacks for 1972 feed grown under government programs.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says the nation's output of meat next year will level off after a four per cent gain in 1971 despite a huge supply of feed grain for the coming season.

Officials said in a report issued Thursday a smaller pork supply in 1972 will about offset moderate increases in beef production.

"In the short term, livestock producers will be tempted to feed finished animals to heavier weights because feed costs will be lower and costs of replacement cattle higher," the Outlook and Situation Board

"In the longer term, the favorable animal-feed more price relationships next year will encourage increased output, but this will not boost slaughter supplies substantially until after 1972," the report

Hog producers have indicated they will cut back on pig production through next spring, a reaction to low market prices this year. The nation's cattle herd, however, is expected to continue growing.

"The cattle inventory is increasing more sharply in 1971 than in other recent years," the report said. "Next year's beginning cattle inventory may be up three million herd or more. Beef animals will account for all of the gain, providing the potential for larger cattle slaughter in the years ahead."

WASHINGTON (AP) - The broiler industry has been cited by an Agriculture Department official as an example of how consumers can benefit from improved production efficiency. Odin Langen, who directs the Packers and Stockyards Administration, said while per ca-consumers declined to 40.8 cents per pound from 59.5 cents during the 20-year period.

"You don't find that kind of a price drop too often these days," Langen told a meeting of poultry industry leaders.

Questions, Answers

Price Commission Ruling

By BROOKS JACKSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - How will the Price Commission's rules affect the average workingman or small businessman? Here are some questions and answers based on Thursday's policy statement:

Q: How much can prices go up after this weekend?

A: On the average, the government hopes to keep increases to no more than 2.5 per cent a year. But some may be more, some less, and some prices may even be rolled back. About one-fifth of the things the average man buys are not controlled at all.

Q: How can I tell if I am being overcharged?

A: Before merchants may raise any prices above freeze

Guideline Summary

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here is a brief summary of the Price Commission's general guidelines for the post-freeze period.

-PRICES: Generally may rise to cover legitimate business costs, minus any increase in worker productivity. The Price Commission hopes this will keep the average of all price increases at 2.5 per cent a year or below. If it doesn't, there will be changes.

-RENTS: Rents on existing apartments and homes remain frozen. Rents on commercial property, industrial property, farms, new homes and new apartments will be entirely free from control. The Price Com-mission and the yet-to-be appointed Rent Board will work out future rent guidelines. In the meantime the Price Commission may announce a few changes to alleviate hardship

-ENFORCEMENT: Mainly voluntary. Firms with under $50 million in yearly sales will be subject to spot checks and investigation of citizen complaints. Bigger firms must rert price increases to the Price Commission or get advance approval for them.

-POSTING: Retail firms must post freeze-level price ceilings for all food items and a yet-to-be-specified selection of other items. The lists must be displayed prominently where customers can see them. No price increases may go into effect until the lists are up. The lists must be up by Jan. 1 in

-EXCEPTIONS: About onefifth of the items that go into the average American's cost of living will not be subject to government price control. These include everything that was exempt during the freeze, including raw agricultural products, imports, taxes, stocks, interest charges, alimony, and child support. New exemptions include all used items including cars and homes, virtually all new homes and buildings, unimproved real estate. dues, custom-made items, hardto-price goods such as antiques and art objects, and special categories including publishing royalties and international shipping rates.

Merchants Are Recognized For Service

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HUGHESVILLE - More than 100 persons attended a Businessmen's Appreciation Dinner held recently at Northwest High School here, sponsored by the Hughesville Community Betterment Club. Honored were merchants and other local citizens who had made contributions over the years to the community's

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Grimes received a special citation for Grimes' 43 years in Hughesville as an implement dealer.

Also recognized were: Mr. and Mrs. James F. Wiley, 40 years in the grocery business; Mr. and Mrs. W. Pryce Fowler, 33 years in trucking and feed; Mr. and Mrs. Art Martin, 25 years in lumber; and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Marshall, 23 years in the locker business. Mr. and Mrs. Leland Bealert were given special recognition as Hughesville's longest residents, and Mrs. Margaret Slaton, long-time area teacher, also was honored.

levels they must post, where you can see them, the legal price ceilings that prevailed during the freeze. This applies to all food items and to a selected list of merclandise yet to be announced. The government hopes you will watch for illegal price increases, because there will be no big bureaucracy to enforce the guidelines. Q: Fine. But how much of an increase is allowed?

A: Manufacturers, wholesales, retailers, service industries and professionals may increase their prices to match any increase in costs that comes after the freeze period is over at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, provided legal regulations covering them are published by then. If their productivity increases, say because of some new and more efficient machinery, they must reduce the amount of the price increase, or even roll back prices. Furthermore, these price increases may not bring about increased profit rates, that is, increases in the portion of each sales dollar that goes into the businessman's pocket. His total profits may go up, however, if his total sales

Q: As a consumer, then, how can I tell if a businessman's price increase is legal?

A: If he won't open his books you are flying blind. However, the Internal Revenue Service will make spot checks and investigate citizens' complaints. For big firms the Price Commission will monitor prices directly

Q: Will rents go up? A: Rents for existing apartments and homes remain frozen until the Price Commission and the yet-to-be-appointed Rent Board work out rules. Meantime, some exceptions may be made for hardship cases. There will be no controls at all for commercial, industrial and farm rents, or for rents on new homes or new apart-

Q: What happens to prices charged by publicly regulated companies such as gas, electric, telephone and railroad

A: Rate increases that were approved by the appropriate regulatory body but were stymied by the freeze may now go into effect. That is, unless the utility is so large as to fall into the category of big businesses that must get advance approval of price increases. In such cases the regulatory body must get prior approval from the Price Commission.

Q: What items are exempted from price controls?

A: The Cost of Living Council published a list Wednesday. It includes everything that was exempt during the freeze, plus all used items, virtually all new homes, unimproved real estate. custom-made objects, handicrafts, dues, hard-to-price items such as antiques and special categories such as publishing royalties and international shipping rates. Things that were exempt from the freeze, and will be exempt from post-freeze controls, include raw agricultural products, interest rates, taxes, stocks, imports, alimony, Q: What do the new rules require of me as a businessman?

A: First, you must post conspicuously a list of legal price ceilings for the freeze period. You must include all your retail food items and a representative list of other retail items yet to be specified. You must do this before you can raise any prices, or in any event before next Jan. 1.

Q: I think I am entitled to a price increase. How can I put it

A: If your annual sales are under $50 million a year, you may increase your prices in line with the guidelines without getting prior approval from the government, or even notifying them. You may do this after 12:01 a.m. Sunday, provided the proper regulations have been issued by then. Bigger firms must get prior approval or notify the Price Commission.

Dear Ann Landers: Our young daughter had a miscarriage a few days ago and she is in a deep depression. This was her first pregnancy and she lost the baby in the fifth month. Dear Ann Landers: You have discussed in your column Screaming Mothers. What about a Screaming Daughter? I am one and I hate myself for it. For years I have been aware of my problem and felt guilty. For years I have talked to myself before I walked into the house: "Tonight you are going to be kind and gentle and keep your voice down - no matter what." For years I have failed.

I have some clues as to why I am like this, but it doesn't help. My parents scream at each other constantly, and they have always screamed at me. I am 24 years old and a college graduate. Either all my psychology courses were science fiction or my parents should take a good look at themselves. Granted, my grandparents probably screamed at THEM, but the blame lies somewhere between environment and self control.

DEAR POLLY - I have dozens of Pet Peeves and many of those that have been printed have been among them. But I have one I have not seen in print. On Price Increases

Guidelines Adopted

WASHINGTON (AP) The President's Price Commission adopted complex guidelines Thursday requiring post-freeze price increases to be justified by legitimate business costs and aimed at holding the national inflation rate to 2.5 per cent a year.

The new guidelines will be effective for the Phase 2 economic period that begins at 12:01 A.M. Sunday, but an immediate upsurge of retail prices next week may be effectively blocked by a commission rule requiring posted price lists.

"This means that some prices will go down," said Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson. "Some will not increase at all. Some will go up more than 2.5 per cent."

The commission shied away from adopting a general price standard applying to the nation's businesses, but instead laid down general rules covering prices by manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, service industries and professionals.

The basic guideline is this: Only price increases that can be justified on the basis of cost increases, minus any amount of worker productivity gains, will be allowed. If the price is over 2.5 per cent and can be justified by this formula, it will be allowed by the commission.

But the price boost may not be so great as to cause an increase in a company's pretax profit rates, measured as a percentage of sales. In other words, profits can increase only through a rise in sales volume if a price increase is involved.

The commission's guidelines, announced at a news conference after days of late-evening work sessions by the seven-member panel, raised many questions that will be answered only when final regulations are published. The commission said the regulations may be published by the end of the week.

But Grayson conceded that consumers may have a difficult time knowing when a price has been boosted legally in line with the commission's guidelines.

Companies will be encouraged, but not required, to show customers cost information that would justify price increases in their stores, he said.

The commission provision that may prevent a quick upswing in retail prices immediately after the freeze ends requires that all retail prices will remain frozen until stores post prominently lists of

The price list must be posted for all food items. For other retail stores, a list of selected items—such as a product that does a high volume of business—must be posted.

Grayson said the detailed regulations on posting will be announced soon. The price lists must be posted no later than Jan. 1, 1972, he said.

The price guidelines cover only the period that begins Sunday, Nov. 14. Prices may be increased to recover only those increased costs incurred after 12:01 a.m. Sunday. Firms will not be allowed to increase prices to get relief, retroactively, for costs that might have gone up during or before the freeze.

Some prices could go up immediately Grayson said, because a business could claim that it began incurring new costs on that date.

Reorganization Commission Presents Government Plan

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Reorganization, or "Little Hoover," Commission offered its plan Thursday for modernizing what it called "the fragmented, unmanageable structure" of Missouri's government.

It said the state already has one tool that will make reorganization possible, authority for the next governor to establish the office of administrative commissioner. He would handle the day to day administration of all the agencies, boards and bureaus now reporting directly to the governor.

It said reorganization is necessary because most departments are just "paper assemblages of agencies with little or no coordination" and "it is difficult for a governor to be more than dimly aware of the manner in which many agencies op-

The commission proposed shuffling present agencies into 10 departments, based on the overall functions of the departments — "in terms of what is being done rather than in terms of who is doing it."

For the reorganization to be successful two constitutional amendments will have to pass next year and the 1973 legislature will have to enact the needed law. It could be completed by the middle of 1974.

Here are the departments proposed by the commission:

Commissioner of Administration — Directly under the governor and containing the personnel advisory board, financial operations, management operations and general building services.

Department of Social Services — Headed by a director and containing the Board of Visitors, State training schools, State Parole Board, Advisory Board on Mental Health, Advisory Board on Health and Hospitals, plus the divisions of health and hospitals, mental health, rehabilitation services, training schools, corrections, welfare and veterans' services.

Department of Revenue — Headed by a director and including the state Tax Commission plus the divisions of collection, compliance and departmental services.

Department of Intergovernmental and Community Affairs — Headed by a director much the same as the present Department of Community Affairs and including the offices of aging, governmental services, planning, economic opportunity and comprehensive health planning, plus the Advisory Council on Community Affairs.

Department of Public Safety — Headed by a director and including the Highway Patrol, Liquor Control, Division of Motor Vehicle, Driver and Boat registration and Water and Fire Safety Division.

Department of Agriculture, Commerce and Consumer Affairs — Headed by a director and including the Public Service Commission, state Banking Board, Savings and Loan Commission, administrative hearing commissioner, Agriculture Division, Corporation and Securities Division, Division of Finance, Commission on Human Rights, Commission on Status of Women, Division of Insurance, Division of Commerce, Tourism and Industrial Development

Department of Industry and Labor — Headed by a director and including the divisions of Employment Security, Workmen's Compensation, Industrial and Mine Inspection, plus the Industrial Commission and the Board of Mediation.

Department of Conservation and Natural Resources — Administered by the Conservation and Natural Resources Commission with a director handling day to day supervision with the divisions of Wildlife and Recreation, Parks, Land and Natural Resources, and Envirionmental Conservation under him.

Department of Highways and Transpogtation — Primarily a broadening of the Highway Department to include all transportation and administered by the present highway commission.

Department of Elementary and Secondary Education — Administered by a state Board of Education with a commissioner handling day to day opegations just as the Department of Education does now. It would include the divisions of Administration, Instruction, Vocational Education and Speical Services and would, as now, oversee operations of the schools for the deaf, the retarded and the blind.

Department of Higher Education — A new department to oversee operations of all state supported colleges and universities, including junior colleges. The present Commission on Higher Education would become the Administrative State Board of Higher Eduvation. Individual boards of curators and regents would continue. The department also would include the state librarian and the Council on the Arts.

The "Little Hoover" Commission is the third in Missouri to recommend reorganization of facets of Missouri's government in order to modernize it. This one provides the most far reaching changes of all. The other two made reports in 1955

Mariner 9 Closer To Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 9 sailed closer and closer to Mars Thursday while scientists awaited first television pictures that might further part the century-old veil of mystery surrounding the planet.

The 2,200-pound windmill-shaped spacecraft, a scant 350,000 miles remaining in its 248-million-mile journey from earth, took the last of 31 television pictures begun Wednesday afternoon and stored them in an on-board tape recorder.

Twenty minutes after the picture-taking session ended at 5:56 p.m. Thursday, Mariner 9 was to begin beaming these photographs through 76 million miles of space to a 210-foot dish antenna at Goldstone, Calif. Seconds later they were to be displayed on television monitors at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena.

While the distance from Mars is now about 76 million miles, Mariner 9 has been chasing the red planet on a course that has taken it more than three times as far in more than five months.

Scientists expect the photographs to be the first to show the planet more clearly than it can be seen through earth telescopes.

Some Mars experts are concerned a swirling dust storm that has covered the planet since late September may interfere with plans to photograph Mars' surface but other scientists whose specialty is studying the Martian atmosphere say the storm, the worst since 1956, presents a once in a lifetime opportunity to study a dynamic changing event in Mars' atmosphere.

Three other U.S. spacecraft have visited Mars, but they got only a short glimpse as they zipped by on into a solar orbit. Mariner 9 will be the first spacecraft to orbit Mars giving daily closeup looks at the

The Soviet Union continued its 5½-month silence about its two Martian probes, Mars 2 and 3. The Soviet spacecrafts launched May 19 and May 28 are expected to reach Mars a few days behind Mariner 9, launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., May 30.

Mars 2 and 3 weigh almost five times as much as Mariner 9, which apparently resulted in a lower velocity when they were rocketed away from earth and, hence, a later Mars arrival time

Celebration Notes Veterans Day

A crisp, sunny fall morning greeted Pettis Countians who attended the 1971 Veterans Day Parade Thursday. Adding color and action to the annual event were bands from area schools, a flurry of ambulances, scooters, motorcycles, horseback riders, a mini train and numerous decorated cars with veterans of wars and war widows and celebrities.

The parade ended at the lawns of the Pettis County Court house lawn where Col. Floyd J. Pugh, commander of the 351st Combat Support Group, Whiteman AFB, was the main speaker.

Col. Pugh called upon his listeners to dedicate themselves to the task of preserving freedom in whose cause thousands had died in wars.

He pointed out that valiant Americans who died in various wars laid down their lives not only because of patriotic zeal but also out of a desire to preserve freedom. He recalled the words of patriot Nathan Hale who said, "I regret that I have but one life to give for my country."

Col. Pugh added, "On this day of paying tribute to the members of our armed forces, it is only appropriate that we offer, each in our own way, a prayer of thanks."

Col. Pugh was introduced by retired Col. Sam Tuck of the VFW.

The Rev. Charles Pfeiffer of St. Patrick's Catholic Church gave the invocation and the Rev. Orval F. Woolery, president of the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association, gave the benefiction.

Among those attending the parade were Rep. Joe F. Rains, former state senator John Ryan and Mayor Jerry Jones.

as "most unsatisfactory."
On Friday Pope found in favor of School District 200, which was accused by the federal government last January of racial discrimination.

In his typewritten decision, obtained by The Democrat-Capital Wednesday, Pope said blame for the unsatisfactory nature of the hearing could be attributed to himself and the attorneys for both the federal government and the Sedalia school board.

The counsel for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Christopher Hagen, was criticized by Pope for not presenting "relevant, pertinent" evidence at the hearing in Kansas City. Hagen presented only two witnesses, Oscar Lawson and Clyde Robinson.

"A golden opportunity was presented to the government to have a number of witnesses testifying on relevant matter," Pope wrote. "Instead, the government produced two witnesses whose testimony shed no light whatsoever upon the situation and approximately one-half of the day was wasted on their testimony.

"Not one person was called who indicated that he or she tried to enroll his child in a school other than Hubbard and was denied the right to enroll. Not one person testified that he or she sought means of transportation of a student from Hubbard to another school in order to affect the freedom of choice. Not one parent in the black community indicated dissatisfaction with the operation of the schools and the fact that Hubbard has been predominately black. Not one person appeared to testify that he or she would like to have sent a black student to one of the predominately white schools but did not do so because of fear, coercion or the use of any of the methods that the white population has used upon the black population in the South to accomplish segregated facilities.

"There were 27 people as spectators, available to be called upon but were not!"

Pope criticized William F. Brown, the Pope criticized William F. Brown, the school board's attorney, for "his ridiculous denial" that Missouri constitutional and statutory law required separate school facilities in Missouri, prior to the 1954 Supreme Court school desegregation decision, for white and Negro students. Pope said this required that otherwise irrelevant testimony from Lawson and Robinson be admitted.

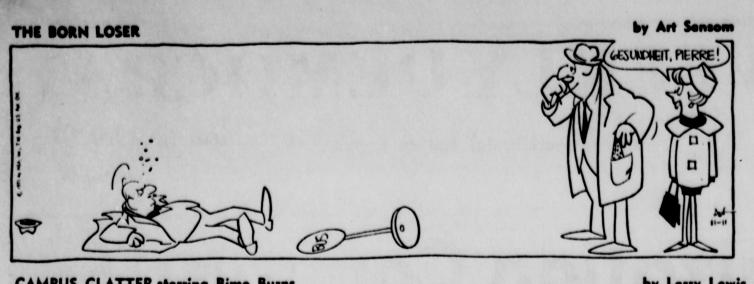

The hearing examiner criticized himself for allowing the hearing to close in one day, rather than continuing it into the next so an "adequate record" could have been obtained. He said the record created was "totally unsatisfactory."

Remember Veteran's Actions

American Veterans of wars, both living and dead, were remembered at the Veteran's Day Parade Thursday morning. Guest speaker at the ceremony on the Pettis County Court House lawn was Col. Floyd J. Pugh, at right, commander of the 351st Combat Support Group, Knob Noster. Adding color to the ceremony were members of the armed forces, as in the above photo, who displayed their flags under the Doughboy statue, a permanent tribute to the war dead of Pettis County.

Looking at Facts On Veterans Day

Veterans Day, although it was officially observed Oct. 25 under the new holiday calendar, is in reality being commemorated today in most cities and communities of the nation.

It was Nov. 11, 1918, that the armistice marking the end of World War I was announced. It happened in the eleventh hour, a term that has since lodged in our vocabulary.

Some are beginning to say that America has reached its eleventh hour in a somewhat different context; that as THE world power we have passed the high water mark, and are on the decline.

We don't agree with that assessment-at least not yet-but do think there are some disturbing signs and trends pointing that way, and that America should wake up and do something about them.

Since this is Veterans Day, a realistic appraisal of our military situation would be appropriate. It is one that gives little comfort.

There was an interesting Associated Press story the other day in which several top Pentagon generals and admirals were asked what the U.S. response would be to possible aggression in various parts of the world. Such contingencies could involve a Soviet attack on NATO's northern flank, or perhaps a joint Arab-Soviet attack in the Mideast, against Israel.

The replies were consistent: there would be little or nothing the U.S. could do to stem such aggression. Soviet military power today is too great.

Many Americans vividly recall the Cuban missile crisis of 1962, when World War III almost erupted on television. Then America's nuclear deterrent and tactical naval power forced Russia to back down. Today it would be impossible, according to high defense officials, because of Russia's dramatic military strides in recent years.

On this Veterans Day it would do well for Americans to face this radically changed world situation squarely, and resolve to take whatever steps are necessary to see that Western democracy does not leave the field by default.

A Conservative View

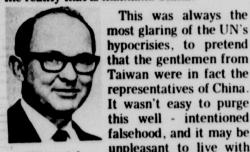

U.N. Should Right Its Rhodesia Wrong

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

UNITED NATIONS - When the United Nations voted the other day to accredit the delegation from Peking, the General Assembly "committed truth," as Ezra Pound once remarked. The UN implicitly acknowledged its own dishonesty-or if you please, its own addiction to illusion-and proceeded to recognition of the reality that is mainland China

This was always the

hypocrisies, to pretend

they say, hurts.

that the gentlemen from Taiwan were in fact the representatives of China. It wasn't easy to purge this well - intentioned falsehood, and it may be unpleasant to live with Kilpatrick the obsidian consequences now arriving from Peking. Truth, as

But in the catalog of the UN's hypocrisies, the China seat was notable only for primacy, not for exclusivity. There have been a hundred others. And it would be singularly appropriate if the General Assembly, now that it is charged with the virtue that follows upon first communion, would stay honest long enough to turn from its largest lie to its smallest. Turn, that is, to Rhodesia. Today marks the sixth anniversary of her independence.

To speak of the UN's treatment of Rhodesia as its smallest lie is merely to relate a small nation of 5.4 million to a vast subcontinent of 800 million. In every other way, the sanctions heaped upon Rhodesia have been uglier, more unwarranted, more scandalous, than the ostracism visited upon Peking. At least the exclusion of Red China could be rationalized in terms of tenuous law and a loftier morality-Red China was not "peace loving," as the Charter requires, and Red China actually had waged war in Korea against the UN itself.

The sanctions against Rhodesia are something else entirely. The Security Council's brutal resolutions were founded upon a lie-the lie that declares Rhodesia a "threat to the peace"-and they never have risen above that contemptible footing. In order to promulgate this jawdropping falsehood, it was necessary for the Council to violate both the letter and the spirit of its own charter, first by intervening in the domestic affairs of a member nation (Great Britain), and then by applying a double standard of political morality (Rhodesia did not propose to observe the principle of majority rule in her internal affairs).

The late Dean Acheson termed the UN's action "naked aggression," and the description will do until something better comes along. It remains a matter of lasting shame that the United States, playing the role of Uriah Heep, connived with Great Britain and the Afro-Asian bloc in this manifestation of mob rule. Whatever London's self-interest may have been, our own long-range self-interest surely rested in preserving the integrity of the UN and maintaining the pro-Western stability of southern Africa. But the truth was not in us. Ambassador Goldberg joined the mob. Crying "one man, one vote!", we goosestepped into the swamp.

Now six years have passed. Six years! The fact of Rhodesia's independence is just that: a fact. The lie of her "threat to the peace" is just that: a lie. The impotence of the Security Council's sanctions cannot be concealed. One has only to visit Salisbury to see a nice microcosmic sample of the commerce of the world. There is nothing in this drama of dignity or majesty or grace; there is little but the snicker, the nudge and the horselaugh, as the Soviet Union buys Rhodesian chrome, marks up the price, and sells it blandly to the United States.

It will be much more difficult for the UN to undo its folly in Rhodesia than it was to reverse itself on China. In the interplay of global forces, Rhodesia simply does not matter; or she matters merely as a symbol, a penny-ante chip in a game of high-rollers. The Afro-Asians and the Communists, having got this handy genie out of a bottle in 1966, have every reason to keep Rhodesia in exile and none to admit her to the family of nations.

But Great Britain, the architect of this ugliness, can do much toward dismantling the structure by concluding her own treaty of reconciliation with Rhodesia. Recent months have brought encouraging signs that such a treaty may be nearing fulfillment. This would tend to let everyone off the hook, and the sanctions, without being repealed, would fall into desuetude. It would mark a happy if anti-climactic ending to an ignominious story.

Greek Mystery Man Probed By Senators

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is asking questions about a multi-millionaire who shuttles mysteriously between the White House and the inner sanctums of the Greek dictatorship.

who runs the Esso works in Greece.

Back in 1968, he helped wangle the vice presidential nomination for his fellow Greek-American, Spiro Agnew. Pappas offered to raise millions for the GOP cause from wealthy Greeks if Richard Nixon would take Agnew as his running mate.

Now Pappas has a key, apparently, to the back door of the White House where he was seen most recently at President Nixon's dinner for Yugoslavia's Josip Pappas also turned up in Greece last month with Vice President Agnew. Pappas was the man in dark glasses who was seen squeezing out of the U.S. helicopter just behind the Agnews. He gave a sumptious dinner for the vice president at a posh hotel in Greece.

Pappas has taken care not to neglect the Democrats in his political wheeling and dealing. The recent House battle to continue military aid to Greece, for example, was led by Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill. We have uncovered a 1969 letter from Pucinski to Pappas, declaring: "I am grateful to you for your help.'

Pucinski has assured us that the "help" was not financial. He was merely expressing his appreciation, said Pucinski, for Pappas' help in finding jobs for constituents who had returned to Greece.

Meanwhile, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's chief of staff, Carl Marcy, has questioned the State Department about Pappas. Marcy asked specifically about press reports, quoting exiled Greek leader Elias Demetracopoulos, that Pappas and his brother John have used "their considerable political and economic clout in the United States to promote simultaneously their own financial interests as well as the interests of a ruthless military dictatorship."

The State Department replied last weekend that Pappas was neither an official of Greece nor the U.S., then added warily as befits a confidential report on a White House favorite: "While the articles in question imply by indirection that Mr. Pappas has acted improperly, there has never been to our knowledge any direct accusation that he has exceeded the bounds of propriety or legality."

Footnote: The Foreign Relations Committee's questions were inspired by Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., who hasn't made up his mind whether to go ahead with an investigation of Pappas' role in Greek-American relations.

A distinguished archaeologist was pulled off an ancient excavation after he refused to pay wages to the pretty, blonde assistant of his Smithsonian Institute boss.

* * *

The Ruckus at the Ruins has all the elements of a late, late pith-helmet movie. The archaeologist is Dr. Alfonz Lengyel of Wayne State University, who in 1968 headed the Smithsonian-backed "dig" to unearth the secrets of Sirmium, a Roman imperial capital in Yugoslavia.

His Smithsonian boss, Kennedy Schmertz, expanded the budget by $600 so his own pretty assistant, Constance Rogers, could be Lengyel's "administrative consultant."

But Miss Rogers disappeared from the site from time to time. On one occasion, Lengyel asked her point blank where she had been. She replied, according to an affidavit he has just made: "It's none of your business. I'm on a confidential

When she demanded her full pay, Lengvel withheld about half of it.

Lengvel went on with his excavation, often working in the pits with his laborers. But Miss Rogers again disappeared—this time just as the junketeering Schmertz arrived in Yugoslavia. Schmertz now admits he had notified Miss Rogers he was on the way but neglected to inform Lengyel.

When Miss Rogers turned up again at the diggings, Lengyel asked her where she had

"Mr. Schmertz arrived in Belgrade and I work for him," she is quoted in the affidavit as replying. Both had registered at Belgrade's posh Hotel Metropole. When Lengyel learned about this, he confronted her with the information.

"A thousand other people were in the same hotel," she replied, according to Lengyel's sworn statement.

Why, persisted Lengyel, didn't his boss visit the important Sirmium site? Miss Rogers allegedly retorted disdainfully: "He's not interested in your excavation."

Schmertz not only failed to visit the Sirmium site but didn't even bother to telephone Lengyel for a report on the project. Yet Schmertz was supposed to be overseeing it for the Smithsonian.

He told us he had arranged with Miss Rogers to inspect other sites in Yugoslavia. This would explain her absences, he said. He concedes that she was supposed to be working for Lengyel and that he never informed Lengyel of the unusual arrangement

While Miss Rogers acknowledges she and Schmertz were in Belgrade together, she emphasizes it was all perfectly proper. Their relationship is based, both say, on mutual respect.

Footnote: Lengyel was praised for his work by such famed archaeologists as Princeton's Homer Thompson and Prof. Andre Varagnac, director of the International Institute of Archaic Civilisation in Paris. Yet a Smithsonian panel, through Denison University which was receiving the grant, kicked Lengvel off the project. The Yugoslav archaeologists protested to no avail.

Sees Fluoride Dangers

Being a registered pharmacist doesn't quality me as an expert on health, but it helps. Because I am in a position to know that fluoride is poison and no matter how small the dose, if taken in any quantity, it has a bad effect on some people's health, especially those who consume large quantities of water daily. I am one of them

Regardless of what the U.S. Public Health Service says, or anyone else professing to know, no poisonous chemical can safely be taken by EVERYONE. Wherever fluoride is introduced into the drinking water the person performing the task is required to wear special protective clothing from head to foot to make sure no contact is made with this poisonous substance. This is not the case with the use of chlorine which we already have in our drinking water. Even chlorine isn't absolutely safe for everyone, but is a question of risking the consumption of possible contaminated water. There is a vast difference in preventing contamination and forcing fluoride consumption which has nothing to do with purifying water.

The idea of comparing vaccination or inoculation with the use of fluoride seems positively absurd. The former, even accepted by some people under duress is known to be of life saving value, whereas the latter (fluoridation) is not at all recognized as such a health measure or life saver

Those who contend that there is no difference in water which contains fluoride naturally and that artificially fluoridated are not admitting to all the facts. If you will investigate both sides of the matter you will learn that there is quite a difference in the effect on people's physical well being.

Furthermore, in my view, when people are FORCED to consume something they do not want to consume they are the victims of an immoral act, because no one has the moral right to force me to consume something I believe to be harmful to my health. I thus am being deprived of freedom of choice.

One more thought. Have you ever investigated as to the roll played by the chemical manufacturers who have much to gain, namely huge profits, from the sale of the product? You could learn a great deal if you go deep enough.

There are other well known methods of preventing dental caries, the most important of which is good dietary habits. A program of education in this respect is long overdue.

Here are other highlights of the -Rents will remain frozen until the Price Commission hammers out final guidelines. The government, however, has exempted commercial, industrial and farm rents from controls, as well as rents on new homes or apartments.

-The guidelines apply generally to prices charged for services, including such things as doctor's and dental fees. The commission said, however, because of the widely varying types of costs and market conditions in service industries, separate regulations may be required.

-Rate increases by the nation's largest utilities must be submitted to the commission for approval, and all rate boosts by utilities will be subject to the price controls.

"Some regulated firms' proposed rate increases have been approved by regulatory authorities, but were not allowed to become effective because of the freeze," the commission said.

"Such increases may go into effect; however, the appropriate regulatory authority shall review such increases for consistency with the goals of the economic stabilization program.

In other economic developments Thursday, the House Banking Committee killed any chance that President Nixon's Phase 2 economic legislation will be enacted until at least next month.

"The financial climate, moreover, is conducive to economic expansion," Burns said. A summary of his remarks was released by the board in Washington.

Herbert Stein, a member of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, told a policy conference of the National Association of Manufacturers he does not believe business community anxieties that the postfreeze controls will prevent profits from expanding are well founded.

Senate Completes Revival Of Foreign Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate completed its two-step revival of the foreign aid program Thursday by passing a $1.5 billion military aid measure.

Before voting 65 to 24 to approve the bill, the Senate restored $318 million to it in response to a warning that reductions might jeopardize U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Together with the $1.1 billion economic bill passed Wednesday night, the military bill provides a $2.6 billion package in place of the $2.9 billion measure rejected just 13 days ago.

The bill now goes to the House which earlier this year voted $3.4 billion for the aid program, just $100 million below the

Nixon administration's request. The immediate parliamentary path for the aid program still appears cloudedand funds may run out temporarily next Monday. But the Senate action appears to

Suits Challenge State School Financing Laws

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) - Suits challenging the legality of state school financing laws were filed Thursday in the wake of the city's rejection of a 95-cent school levy increase.

The suits were filed in Jackson County Circuit Court here in behalf of Bryan R. Starr, 6, and Karen E. Troeh, 10, and Richard B. Troeh, 6.

They ask that property tax financing of public schools be declared unconstitutional on grounds they lead to discrimination in educational opportunities among groups of pupils.

They also ask:

-That the law requiring 180 days of classroom sessions to make districts eligible for state aid be declared unconstitutional.

-That state institutions of higher learning be required to accept Independence high school graduates as accredited if the district is not able to provide an equivalent education.

-That the school tax assessment law be declared unconstitutional because it forces property owners to pay higher taxes than other districts.

-That the court implement restructuring of the tax system and that it maintain jurisdiction in the case to ensure the legislature accomplishes this in a reasonable length of time.

Independence's 25 public schools were closed as of Nov. 1 on the board of education's contention that it lacked funds to pay teachers. For the seventh time in 21 months, Independence voters turned down a proposed 95-cent levy increase. Opponents contended it was unnecessary. The school board subsequently decided to reopen schools Monday, saying it might be able to maintain operations on state funds due the district Dec. 15.

Court Thursday Carson was sentenced to serve two concurrent two-year terms in the State Penitentiary on charges of second degree burglary and stealing. He was placed on probation for three years.

Carson was arrested with Sammy Joe Davis, 1004 South Missouri, in connection with a break-in of the Firestone Store, West Highway 50, on Sept. 12, 1971.

Merchandise valued at $1,199 reportedly taken in the break-in. Davis was bound over to the December term of Circuit Court in Magistrate Court

Durley was sentenced to a two-year term in the State Penitentiary and given credit for time served in the Pettis County Jail on a charge of issuing an account-closed check to Lester Cramer at the Tempo store here. The $310.55 check was issued on the Jefferson Bank and Trust Company, May 16th, 1969 to pay for a color television.

Deadlines For Mailing Announced

Sedalia Postmaster Maurice F. Hogan Thursday announced the deadline for mailing Christmas parcels and greeting cards.

Parcels destined for armed forces personnel stationed overseas were to be mailed by Nov. 5, with Monday suggested as the deadline for cards. These dates apply to surface mail, he said. Space available mail must be sent by Nov. 19 and the airmail deadline for both parcels and cards is Dec. 10.

Domestic mail deadlines, except Alaska and Hawaii, are: distant states, Dec. 1 for parcels and Dec. 10 for cards; local and nearby states, parcels, Dec. 10 and cards, Dec. 15; airmail, parcels, Dec. 15 and cards Dec. 22. Mail schedules for Alaska and Hawaii:

assure the program will continue for now.

It rejected 46 to 43 a move to lower the bill's $341 million spending ceiling on U.S. operations in Cambodia.

But the bill, as passed, contains Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment calling for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina within six months as well as a series of restrictions on the aid program opposed by the administration.

Mansfield charged that, by approving $400 million more for arms aid than economic assistance the Senate had put the emphasis of the aid program on "the weapons of destruction, on military Appealing for the bill, Republican Leader Hugh Scott said "I urge all senators to give the benefit of the doubt to this program.

"If the Senate doesn't act now, it will have to consider a third time and come back in December," he said.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, DArk., of the Foreign Relations Committee, who failed in a move to cut the arms aid program earlier Thursday, said "I had hoped we would take a different approach and give emphasis to another place.

A telephone call from Secretary of State William P. Rogers to Scott, promising that the administration would promptly spend $85 million in supporting assistance for Israel, appeared to have helped carry the Stennis amendment.

Arguing for his amendment. Stennis said the Foreign Relations Committee's cuts of $538 million from the original bill and $798 million from the administration request 'jeopardize the success of our withdrawal from South Vietnam."

"I believe that modest increases are required even for those programs to be phased down in a reasonable manner." he said, adding that by voting for the reduced levels "we essentially vote to kill military assistance immediately."

Before adopting the Stennis amendment, the Senate rejected 64 to 24 a move by Fulbright to cut an extra $185 million from the military aid part of the bill.
